Notes

Education and development allowance.

The National Education Programme for the academic years 2021-2022 and 2022-2023 contains a labour market allowance for employees at schools in European Netherlands with relatively many students with a risk of educational disadvantages.

No distinction between the schools can be made based on the disadvantage criterion for Caribbean Netherlands. For this reason, the Minister of Primary and Secondary Education has decided that the funds of this allowance will be made available for an education and development allowance for Caribbean Netherlands. This concerns the education and development of educational staff that have become required because of corona.

A total of approximately $890,000 (€790,000) will be available for the schools in the Caribbean Netherlands for the academic years of 2021-2022 and 2022-2023. This budget will be distributed among the schools based on the number of students of the school on 1 October 1st 2021. The amount per student is higher on the Windward Islands compared to Bonaire because of the supplements on the Windward Islands arising from the differences in wage and price levels. Schools on Bonaire will receive a total of approximately 175 dollars per student. Schools on Saba and Saint Eustatius will receive a total of approximately 205 dollars per student. The allowance is expected to change in October 2022.

The education and development allowance will be used by the employer in consultation with the participation council. For example, the allowance can be used for training educational assistants as teachers, a language programme, online education, or a study trip. The competent authority will report on the use of the education and development allowance in the annual report to ensure that it is clear for which goals the allowance was used.

Employee participation

A limited form of employee participation was introduced in the Caribbean Netherlands as of 1 August 2014. This decision was made "because the school boards were given greater policy freedom because of the lump-sum funding¹". This includes horizontal supervision with an important role for the participation council.

Employee participation must also contribute to "Increasing the involvement and commitment of staff, parents, and students, and can also make a positive contribution to improving the performance of the school and the quality of education²".

² Bulletin of Acts, Orders and Decrees 2014, 104.

The members of the participation council require facilities to properly perform their duties. The addendum arranges that the staff members can carry out the duties of the participation council as part of the annual working standards of 1659 hours. The time spent on participation duties has been determined based on the example participation regulations discussed with all school boards in 2014 that are already being fully or partially used by a number of school boards.

Education in the field of employee participation is also important for its effectiveness. For this reason, Article 3 sets out that employees who are a member of the participation council are entitled to eight hours of training per year.

These eight hours will be scheduled as part of the annual working hours standard of 1659 hours and will be on top of the participation duties set out in Article 2. Training is defined as gaining knowledge and skills to be able to properly perform the participation duties. The costs of training will be borne by the employer.

The competent authority will give the participation council, the common participation council, a civil secretary, and a committee of the participation council the opportunity to make use of the facilities of the school. This includes meeting spaces, computer facilities, copy facilities, and the like. The competent authority will also make an arrangement for the costs incurred by the participation council or the common participation council. This scheme can be used to determine which costs are eligible for reimbursement and how expenses can be claimed and will be paid.

The employer will also make a budget for employee participation available to the staff delegation of the participation council and the staff delegation of the common participation council. The amount for the staff delegation of the participation council depends on the number of students per school at the start of the academic year. A fixed amount will be made available to the staff delegation of the common participation council, irrespective of the size of the school.

The amounts have been derived from the amounts set out in the CLA for the primary education sector 2021 for the staff delegations of the participation council and the staff delegation of the common participation council. The amounts apply for all education types because the employment condition schemes for Caribbean Netherlands do not make a distinction between primary education, secondary education, and Lower Vocational Education.

The lump sum already includes funds for facilities for employee participation since 2014. The schools in the Caribbean Netherlands receive - pro rata - the same funds for employee participation as the schools in European Netherlands. This is sufficient for the facilities set out in this addendum.
